

The imaginary autobiography

I was born in Zanesville, Ohio United States of America. I spent 1 year there and moved to New Brunswick, Canada. By age 6, I started going to school and as I grew up, I start to pursue what I wanted to be and do when I'm older, be an Interventional Radiologist. In 2025, after lots of hard work, I graduated high school and studied at Dalhousie University.

I start off by doing my 4 year college degree. The first year was difficult and there were so many new terms and lots of thinking and processing to do. The last 3 years weren't as bad because I was a bit more used to everything. After, I tried my hardest to pass my licensing test. There was a lot of studying to do but I pushed through and made it! Last but not least, 4-5 years of residency. The number of years depends on the person, but usually you would need to do at least 5. It was very difficult and there were so many obstacles that I stumbled across, but I tried my hardest.

Finally, I graduated in 2034. After all that, I move to New York where I moved into a small apartment. Since I just started working, I didn't have enough money to live there for long. After a couple of years there, I had to move out and go back to New Brunswick to live with my parents. I found a job at the Regional Hospital as a Radiologist and started making more money. Eventually, I gathered up enough to move back to New York and take back my job there.

In 2049, I won the fellowship of the CAR award. (Canadian Association of Radiologists). This is after I spent 5 years in New York and decide that it was not right for me, so I left and I moved to Halifax, Canada. There I met a very nice, good looking guy. He is now my fiancée and we have 3 kids; 2 boys and 1 girl. We currently live in a very lovely country home on the water and we are very happy.
